FVCbank announces grand opening celebration community event for new Ashburn Branch

FAIRFAX, Va. - First Virginia Community Bank (FVCbank) will celebrate the opening of its new Ashburn branch location with local dignitaries, board members, current customers and the local community on Thursday, December 1, beginning at 4:00 p.m., with a ceremonial ribbon cutting conducted by the Loudoun County Chamber of Commerce.

The Ashburn branch location expands the reach for financial services deeper into Northern Virginia with a focus on both personal and commercial banking. FVCbank sets itself apart by assisting clients in achieving their financial goals through a relationship banking experience. FVCbank provides financial services for personal clients, as well as assisting small businesses to large corporations in providing financial solutions to meet their needs, while contributing to the increased economic development movement within the state.

“Our FVCbank team looks forward to celebrating this momentous occasion for our shareholders and Loudoun County,” stated David W. Pijor, chairman, president and chief executive officer of FVCbank. “With a focus on serving, we look forward to becoming increasingly more involved in the Ashburn community and hope everyone will come out to meet our team and join us for this celebration.”
